Idaho & Fitzgerald

We are a small group of organizational development consultants dedicated to building productive, yet humanistic workplaces.

We help customers operate in the context of chaotic change, organizational culture, and market uncertainty where people live, work and grow.

We aspire to encourage and support individuals, teams, and organizations in recognizing and following their greater purpose for the benefit of their organization, their customers, their investors, and their communities.

In summary, we focus on developing the leadership talent that makes a difference.
